Lead the Way Friday-Sunday, Feb. 5-7

Lead the Way, GSNorCal's leadership conference planned by and for high school girls will be going virtual this year! The girl committee has identified workshops that they would like to have offered at this year's conference, the theme of which is, "She has power in her words, and strength in her mind". We are currently looking for workshop speakers that could present on:

- Social Justice
- How to Advocate
- Lifestyle Balance (work/school/life)
- Entrepreneurship (small or large businesses)
- Exploring Pathways Beyond High School (volunteering, trade school, university, career, & more)
- Career Panel (Justice, STEM, business, marketing, & more)
- Finding a Job
- College Applications and Essays
- Adulting 101 (credit cards, calling the doctor, voting & civic responsibility)
- How to be Anti-Racist

We are especially looking for BIPOC (Black, indigenous, or people of color) presenters, particularly folks who are femme or womxn identifying.

We're also looking for a keynote speaker (BIPOC, femme or womxn identifying) that can present on the themes of social justice and mental health. I'd love to hear suggestions from your membership, if they are interested or know anyone who would be a good keynote.

All presentations will be 45 minutes, and we want to make sure we have speakers that can engage 9th-12th grade participants in a live session (will have up to 25 participants in a room) and are comfortable in the virtual space (we can provide training and we will have tech/adult support in each room).

Here is the tentative workshop schedule:
